

Individual Reflection Week 20

What do I want to learn or understand better?

As this was our final sprint I feel that this project duration was really insightful on how to work with scrum and with an agile development team. However, I feel that only six weeks is nowhere near enough and that I would like to continue to learn more about scrum and software development. Maybe a project that spans for a much longer time or working in a different environment. Nevertheless I am very thankful for this wonderful team for teaching me so much about software development as well as scrum.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

During this sprint I didn't really feel like I helped anyone learn anything new, as most of us just finished up the remaining user stories in the backlog. However I think that in future projects I will be able to help the others by sharing information on how to solve issues and mostly I feel confident in my use of scrum.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I don't think I contributed that much this final sprint as our scrum master had good knowledge of everything. I participated in the sprint planning, all the daily scrums as well as the final sprint review and sprint retrospective.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

I finished one of the final user stories together with Martin and was present during the stakeholder meeting as well as the final presentation in class. The stakeholder was happy regarding our team's final additions to the MVP and now its only the final report left which I want to contribute lots to.
