What do I want to learn or understand better?

This week we did our last sprint for this project. We finally managed to show the search result in the website. We as a team finished all of the user stories for the sprint. One thing that I would like to know better is what we do if somebody gets sick during the sprint. To lower the velocity sounds reasonable but what if it happens in the middle of the sprint? I was also the scrum master this sprint, and I would like to know more about how to do that role better.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

This sprint I could help the team with coordinating the workload, making sure that everyone felt good about their user stories and were able to finishing them on time.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

As earlier weeks, I joined the team in the sprint planning, sprint review, sprint retrospective. Because I was the scrum master this sprint, I held the daily stand up meetings and made sure we tracked our KPI's. We also had our last stakeholder meeting, where we showed Tickster our final product and they were satisfied about our work. It seems like we created value for them.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

I had less programming responsibility this week, but I still had time to work on user stories and especially on the search bar part of the project. I also contributed to the team reflection.
