What do I want to learn or understand better?

During the first week we was introduced to the Scrum framework. I felt that it was a lot of information to take in but I am sure that I will gain a deeper understanding of the concept the following weeks. The "Draw Mona Lisa" exercise was really interesting and made me understand the concept of sprints. The exercise showed that we as a team could solve a task effectively with limited time. I world like to learn how to work more effectively and use time more wisely. Also, I look forward to learn how to work in a team with different knowledge and experience.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I think I may be able to help the team with my experience with programming and a positive approach to learn new technologies. Since the team members have different experiences, I think that we can learn a lot from each other.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

Because this is the first week, we have started to plan in advance for the sprints and we have not applied Scrum to our project yet. So, I would say that my contribution to the team's use of Scrum this week was to learn about Scrum and attend the exercises with my team.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

The whole team worked together to construct a social contract. My contribution would be to join the team in discussing and formulate the social contract.
